

SRH Haarlem University of Applied Sciences¹ Complaints Procedure

Introduction

At SRH Haarlem University of Applied Sciences we value feedback from our students and are committed to addressing their concerns promptly and fairly. To ensure that complaints related to exams and other non-exam matters are handled efficiently, we have established separate procedures for each category.

We are committed to addressing complaints in a fair, transparent, and efficient manner, whether they relate to exams, other aspects of your educational experience, or general concerns. Please ensure that your complaint includes the specified details to facilitate a thorough examination and resolution. Your feedback is essential to our continuous improvement efforts.

General Complaints (Non-Exam Matters):

a. Purpose:

This procedure addresses complaints related to non-exam matters such as teaching quality, facilities, administrative processes, and student services.

b. Definition of a complaint:

A complaint about non-exam matters is defined as an expression of dissatisfaction or concern, whether oral or written, about any aspect of the educational experience or services provided by SRH Haarlem University of Applied Sciences, excluding exam-related concerns.

c. Process:

Informal Resolution: students are encouraged to seek informal resolution by discussing non-exam-related concerns with their Lecturers or staff members in the relevant department. If students are not satisfied with the resolution suggested by Lecturers or staff members, the student can address the issue to the Program Director
